1. James Gemmill, Irvine, Scotland to John Gemmill, Merchant, Ramsay Township, Upper Canada.

Dear Brother,

I received your letter of 29th Sepr 1828 about the beginning of Decbr following - I was very sorry to here of the loss you have met with in the death of your wife it is no doubt a heavy tryal[sic] but the will of the Lord must be done. - You mention altho with reluctance you must have another wife[.] [T]here are some going from this place to get Husbands[.] My old Landlord Mr. Gardners Daughter is just fitting out to go to Jamaica to get married to an old sweetheart[sic], and there is another from this place going to Montreal to get a husband, by this you see the ladys on this side are none affraid[sic] to venture over the water where a sweetheart comes in the way - So if you still be in want of a wife if you recollect any of your old friends you have no more to do but commission me and I will do all in my powr to forward the business in this country.

The marriages in this part of the country are going on slowly[.] Mr. James Steven[,] Port Glasgow has got a Lady of that place, Miss Jean Nisbet is married to Mr. Henderson they keep a Grocer and Spirit shop in Paisley[.] So much for marriages of our friends[.] I will next mention the deaths of our relations[.] Mrs John Dunlop Boreland was burried 4th Decr 1827[.] Mrs Duncan and Mrs Wylie are both dead. Mrs Wylies funeral was on 2 Sepr 1828[.] Mrs Ferguson[,] Irvine 19th May 1829 our Uncle James Dunlop late of Lonehead 29th May 1829 these are all that are related to us that I mind of at present - I lately saw an old acquaintance[sic] of ours John Stevenson of Netherhill [p.2] who wishes to be remembered to you and to let you know he had no fewer than Eleven children all alive[,] Sons and Daughters -This country is in a very poor state[,] the manufactoring[sic] trade is at present very low, every vilage[sic] round many hundreds of the weavers are idle and even those that have work are measerably[sic] paid for it[,] provisions are cheap but they have not the money to pay for them - I am glad to here your son John is well let me know if Mr. James McFarlane has ever settled with you about the five pounds I sent with him to John as I think it is full time long ago he was going to purchase stockings and pay it to you as soon as he went over - I am now perfectly sure that your mother got the £30 John Smith speaks of to you but those things are best known to himself and you[,] he is at present gone to London on a pleasure jaunt and I believe is to be away about a month[,] last time I saw his mother I think she looks about as old like as our mother did. Mary Ann is in Dumfriess[sic] with her Father she was lately here, but only made a short stay[,] her money is lent on security on a house in Dundonald where it is safe - You have another friend in America, young Mr Gemmill of Templehouse, he is gone to South America and I believe is a clerk of the Gold mines in that Cuntry[sic]. My wife has been in a very poor state of health this long time of some disorder your wife died of at the time we received your letter[,] she was going through a course of mercury which did her no good and she still thinks it will cut her off[f] in the end[.]

[p.3] Our friend Wm Nisbet took badly last winter with a remactic[rheumatic] fever and was confined nearly three months the consequence is he never will be able for his work as a saw[y]er altho he is pretty well recovered[.] Mrs Nisbet has been in a lingering state for five or six weeks past but I believe is getting better[.] James Caldwell is here at present who joins me in best respects to you and family[.] write soon letting me know how the...looking with you this season and how you ar[e]...on with respect to business - in this country...fine appearance of an ardent crop of all sort...Barley Oats & Potatoes[.] write first opportunity m[y]...[family?]...a[nd] [fri]ends join me in Compt to you & John.

I am your Dear Brother Yours Sincerely

James Gemmill

2. Alexander Adam, Saltcoats, Scotland to John Gemmill, "Ramsay by Perth."

April 9, 1827

Dear Uncle + Aunt

We received yours in due time and was happy to hear you were all well + coming on so well, you will no doubt be thinking by this time that we have been very forgetful of you, we intended to have wrote last summer but we put it off too long for the vessels was all sailed before we knew of it. I think you was very fortunate of leaving Scotland so soon for all the trade appears to be leaving us, as for the weaving it is worse of any, for last summer their was scarcely a web to be got[.] [T]he weavers was mostly employed in making and mending the roads and almost barefoot for want of shoes, altho webs be plentier it would be a hard weeks work of winning six shillings. I served an apprenticeship of 4½ years with my cousin Wm Erskine and since I was free it has been very dull. I was idle many a time but I never went to the mending of roads for it was just as Charity to them that was destitute of any support. You mentioned in your last letter that if my Aunt Jean was not married to send her out to America that she would soon get a husband but we will not need to send her out for she was married two years ago to a Widower schoolmaster in Camalaghie[?] the name of John Kingan who had only eight children and she has got a son which make nine. You will not doubt be thinking she was fo[u]nd of a husband but she appears to be very comfortable and happy but they removed to Shet[t]leston [Glasgow] where he has a good school. I was there last summer and went to Airdrie and saw my Aunts Catherine + Eliza they were all well and coming on well. Eliza is hiring a small house beside them. I suppose you would hear that my grandmother and Robert Ross died about two years ago. Eliza was seeing my Aunt Janet she is living in a little village near Edinburgh and working at the needle and doing very well. We are living in my Aunt Jean's end of the house now we got a small shop made off the kitchen which makes it convenient. My mother is working away as usual altho there is little doing as money is so scarce[sic]. Janet and Marrison is working at the needle and there is no of them married yet. I suppose we will have to send them out to you to look for husbands for them. There is no good chances here and I think I will have to come out likewise for there is nothing doing here. Alexander Erskine was married about two years ago and died that same year also his wife died about seven months after both of Consumption. We are very happy to hear that little John has got so stout and is coming on so well and tell him that when I come out I will bring some fine books to him. We are very sorry to hear by John Smith's letter that your potash house burned which no doubt would be a great loss to you but I hope would sooner make it up than you would do in Scotland...
